

Text that does not need to be read as it is just some text to show the right text margin and has not got any other meaning.

Layered silicates consist of negatively charged silicate platelets stuck together to form stacks, called tactoids. In between the individual layers there are water and cations, which are mostly Na^+ -ions.